Payroll Basis (How they're paid):

- Hourly or Daily Wage

Workers like cashiers, sales associates, and stock clerks are usually paid based on an hourly or daily rate.

This lets the payroll system scale with hours worked.

- Monthly Salary

Supervisors and managers may be paid a fixed monthly salary, often above minimum wage because of responsibilities.

Payroll Logic (How pay will be calculated):

1. Basic Pay

- Hourly roles: Work hours × hourly rate
- Daily roles (common in retail): Daily rate × days worked
- Monthly roles: Fixed monthly salary

2. Add-Ons

- Overtime (OT): For hours beyond standard work hours (usually 8 hours/day), an extra premium applies (often 25% more than the regular rate).

- Holiday pay: If they work on a public holiday, they get extra pay set by law.
- Night shift differential: If they work late hours, they get extra too.

3. Deductions

- SSS, Pag-IBIG, PhilHealth contributions (required government deductions)
- Taxes (if applicable beyond minimum wage exemptions)
- Absences or unpaid leave

Payroll Logic (How pay will be calculated):

Pay will be based on Region 4A laws

Role	Pay Basis	Minimum Daily / Hourly Pay
Cashier	Daily	₱508.00 (minimum)
Sales Associate	Daily	₱508.00 (minimum)
Stock Clerk	Daily	₱508.00 (minimum)
Shift Supervisor	Daily / Monthly	₱600.00 (higher, reflects responsibility)
Store Manager	Monthly (salary)	₱25,000 – ₱40,000 (market rate above minimum)

For hourly pay, divide the daily minimum by the hours worked per day (e.g., $₱508 \div 8 \text{ hrs} \approx \text{₱63.50/hr}$).
